Water Sample Solicitations

CHEYENNE, WY – Recently some residents in Cheyenne received packages or notices offering free water testing but the request is not on behalf of the City of Cheyenne Board of Public Utilities (Board).

“Cheyenne’s treated drinking water consistently surpasses state and federal standards, making Cheyenne’s water continuously reliable and safe,” stated the Board’s Water Conservation Manager, Dena Egenhoff. The Board has stringent requirements in place to test the water for many compounds and elements that is provided in the Consumer Confidence Report (CCR), which is available to all residents and customers.

The Board adheres to rigorous scientific procedures at our water lab where quality assurance is practiced. In cases where water testing sample packets are left at the door step, there is no way to guarantee a proper sample was collected nor the water sample results truly represent the water quality. “If our customers have water quality concerns, please contact the Board’s Water Treatment Plant directly at 307-635-7693 to assist you,” Egenhoff stated.

The Board wants customers to make informed decisions about their drinking water. When considering these solicitations, carefully read the information and consider the bottom line of the solicitation.
